As an ever-louder voice of data intrudes and transforms at every level of the education enterprise, school leaders and teachers need understanding.

LeiLani's morning briefing will show the latest data on outside consumer pressure, research on market dynamics and more. Based on your role in schools or districts, you can expect important and practical professional development including:

- Leading -- Having a "Systems Mentality"
- Planning – New "Scale" for Education Analytics and Leadership
- Tech Directing – Integration, Device & Network Impacts
- Teaching – New Roles, New Opportunities

The next phase in the change continuum for schools is a new incursion of data from software, from the intersection of technology with redesigning the physical environment, and more. This event helps you make sense where it is all going.

Special Guest Speakers:

Melanie Harris | Chief Information Officer | School District of Philadelphia

Dr. Fran Newberg | Deputy Chief, Educational Technology | School District of Philadelphia
